1. Linhsi airfield is one kilometer east of Linhsi (118-28, 43-32). There is a Catholic Church about ten kilometers north of Linhsi that can be seen from a distance of about twenty kilometers.
2. The airfield is approximately 700 meters square and has a hard surface of soil mixed with pebbles and covered by grass about six inches high. The airfield rarely becomes muddy. A hard, smooth dirt runway was built in 1941; there is no paved runway at the airfield.
3. There are no facilities at the airfield. However, under the Manchukuo Government there was a combination weather observation and radio station south of Linhsi.
4. From 1933 until the end of World War II, this airfield was used as an operational base by the Kwantung Army for the Inner Mongolian Silingol League area.
5. Soviet authorities used this airfield at the time of the Japanese surrender.
